

Inquiry Hits Acoia Equipment Disposal

Washington investigators were given a more than cursory look this week at the 1948 sale of electrical equipment from the Acoia plant located at 190th St. and Normandie Ave. as inquiries continued into operations of the War Assets Administration.

One self-styled lead hunter, Frank Nathan, who has figured prominently in several Congressional investigations recently, testified to a Senate investigations sub-committee Monday that he and a New York junk dealer pocketed $57,000 each for their lip that the equipment used in the wartime plant was to be sold.

Testimony revealed that the syndicate, referred to as a Torrance syndicate, was formed by Sidney Land of New York, Louis Dullen of Seattle and J. H. Anthony of Los Angeles.

The firm negotiated a contract with WAA to dispose of the electrical equipment which cost the federal government about $47,000 on a basis whereby the government was to receive the first $750,000, 50 per cent of the gross between $750,000 and $1,200,000 and 60 per cent of the gross over $1,200,000.

Nathan told the investigators he learned of the proposed disposal of the equipment from brochures he saw in the WAA offices in Washington.
